

what our students say...

trinh duy hai, ho chi minh city
"I am now working as a guest relations officer in a hospitality company in HCM City. My internship experience, a part of The Tourism Academy curriculum, prepared me well for this job."

do duc anh, ho chi minh city
"My parents are proud of me that I'm able to study in Singapore because they know that having a Singapore education will open up many opportunities for me, be it further studies for a degree, or getting a job."

lai hong phuc, hanoi
"The style of teaching here is different. I learn through problem solving, hands-on training in the kitchen, restaurant and in an attraction in Sentosa. I learn to work in a team and build my confidence through stand-up presentations."

nguyen do ngoc phuong, ho chi minh city
"Coming from Le Hong Phong High School for the Gifted, I'm glad to be studying in a Singapore government school which is also well-established. It is known for its tourism and hospitality programmes."

kelvin seah, lecturer

"Hospitality and tourism is really an exciting industry. Jobs are abundant and varied, ranging from hotels to airlines, from events to travel companies, from restaurants to retail, from attractions to resorts.

If you are keen on getting a head start, you can do just what our students are doing: go to a good school, learn the business, open your heart and mind, shape your attitude, and get connected."

nguyen duy duc, ho chi minh city
"I have honed my leadership skills and organisational abilities through various school activities at The Tourism Academy. These, together with the diploma, have given me the confidence to further my studies now in a local university in Singapore."

kim ngoc long, hanoi
"English is widely used here and it has helped me to improve my command of the language. Being Asian as well, the cultures here are not too different from mine, yet I have also been able to broaden my knowledge and understanding of working with people from different countries."

cao min thanh, ho chi minh city
"Although I was nervous when I first came, I soon found it easy to adjust to life here. I love studying in my school because it is on a resort island. The whole island is our living classroom as we get to interact with tourists, meet industry players and observe tourism at work."
